About the Books:

Endurance: Shackleton's Incredible Voyage

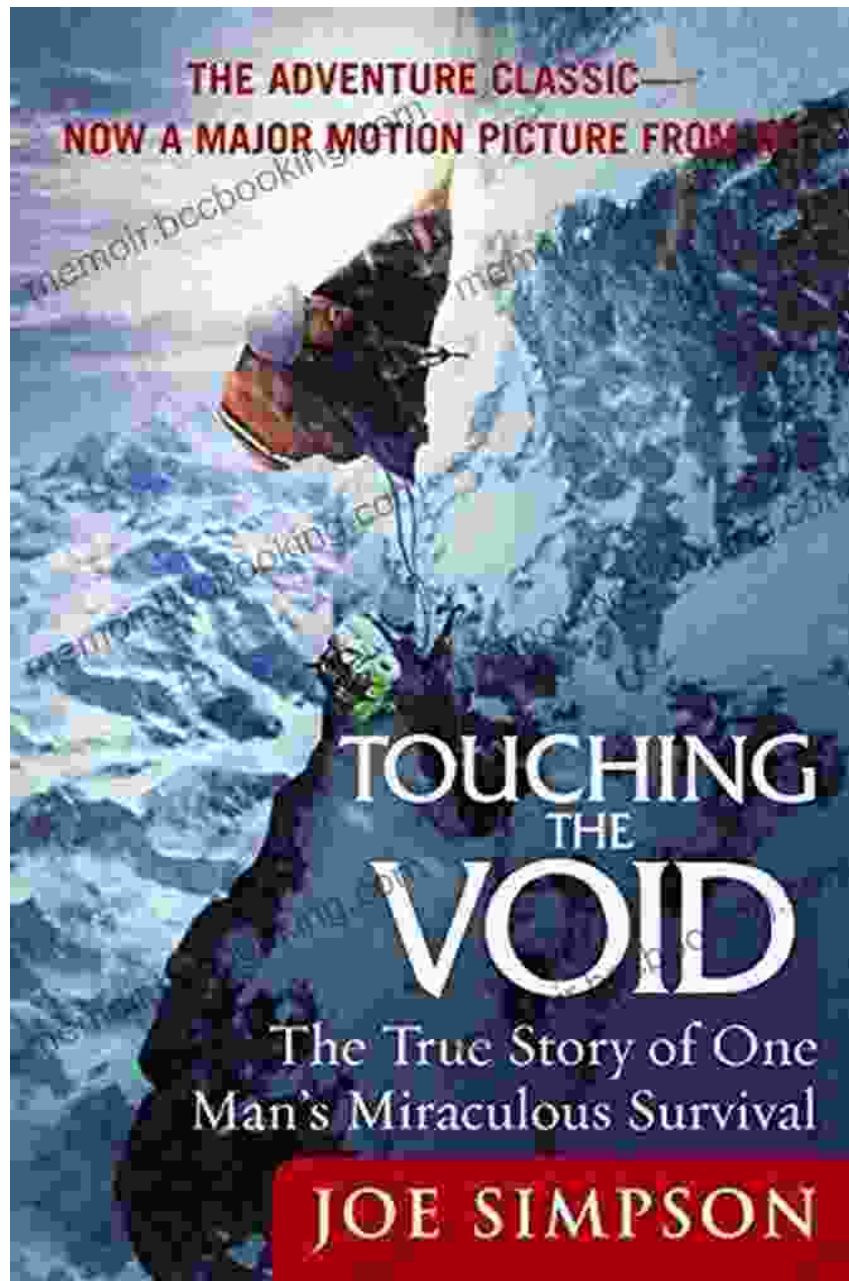

In 1914, Sir Ernest Shackleton set out on an ambitious expedition to Antarctica. His ship, the Endurance, became trapped in pack ice and was eventually crushed, leaving Shackleton and his crew stranded on the icy continent. Endurance tells the incredible story of their survival and their epic journey back to safety.

The Lost City of the Incas

In 1911, Hiram Bingham discovered the ruins of Machu Picchu, the legendary lost city of the Incas. The Lost City of the Incas chronicles Bingham's perilous journey to Machu Picchu and his subsequent exploration of the site.

Touching the Void: The True Story of Miraculous Survival

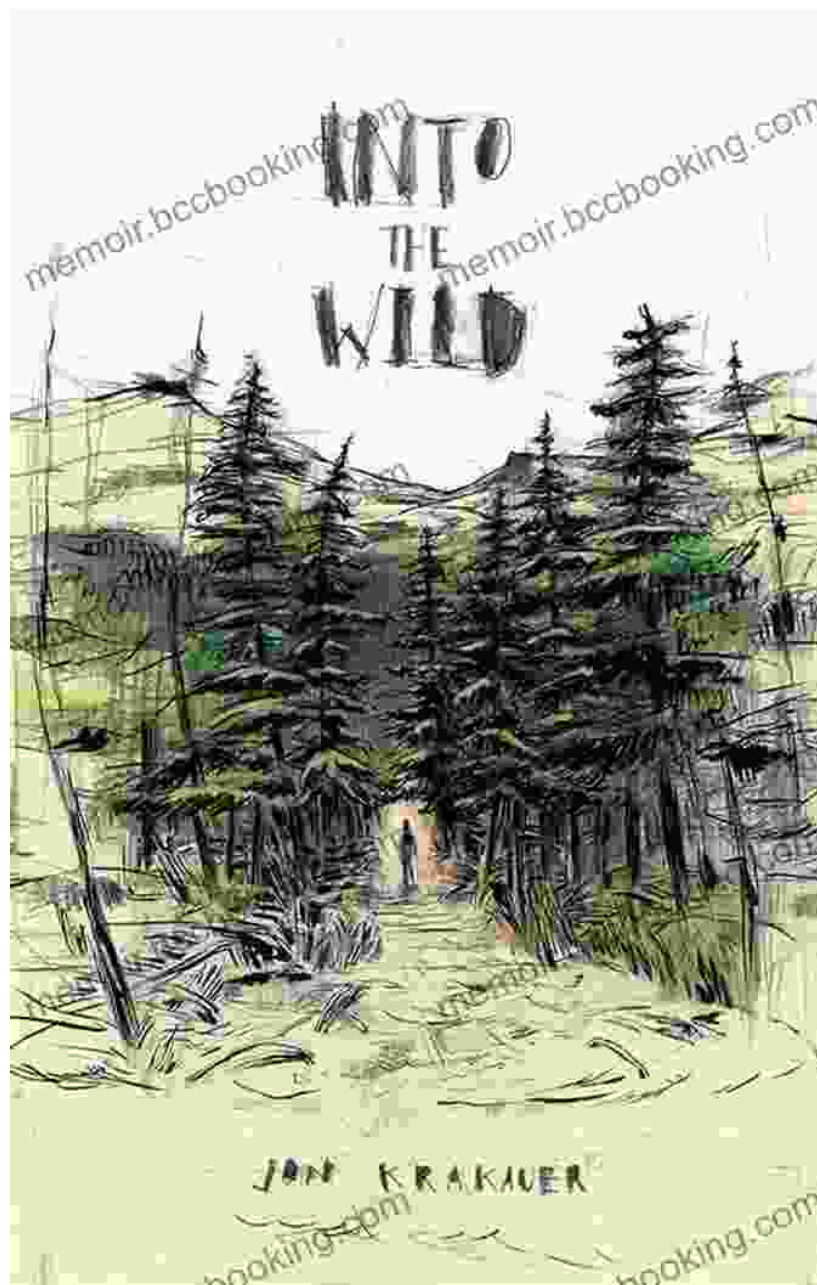

In 1985, Joe Simpson and Simon Yates embarked on a climbing expedition in the Peruvian Andes. Simpson fell and was left hanging on a rope, alone and injured. Touching the Void tells the harrowing story of Simpson's survival and his eventual rescue.

The White Darkness: A Journey Across the Arctic Circle

In 2009, David Grann retraced the steps of Arctic explorer Vilhjalmur Stefansson. The White Darkness chronicles Grann's journey across the Arctic Circle, as he explores the challenges and dangers faced by early polar explorers.

Into the Wild

In 1992, Christopher McCandless abandoned his comfortable life and set out on a journey into the Alaskan wilderness. Into the Wild tells the tragic story of McCandless's journey and his eventual death.
