When Sarah and Jon decided to adopt a child, they knew they wanted to give a home to a child with special needs. They had always been drawn to children who were different, and they believed that every child deserved a loving family.

After a long wait, they were finally matched with Josh, a four-year-old boy with cerebral palsy. Josh had been in foster care since he was a baby, and he had a lot of medical and developmental challenges. But Sarah and Jon were not afraid. They were determined to give Josh the best possible life.

The first few years with Josh were challenging. He had to have multiple surgeries, and he required constant care. But Sarah and Jon never gave up on him. They loved him unconditionally, and they were committed to helping him reach his full potential.

As Josh grew older, he began to make progress. He learned to walk with a walker, and he started to talk. He also developed a love of music and art.

Today, Josh is a happy and healthy 10-year-old boy. He is still facing some challenges, but he is making great strides. He is a loving and affectionate child, and he brings joy to everyone who knows him.

Sarah and Jon are so grateful that they were able to adopt Josh. He has taught them so much about love, patience, and perseverance. They believe that every child deserves a loving family, and they hope that their story will inspire others to open their hearts and homes to children with special needs.

Here is an excerpt from the book:

“ "We knew that adopting a child with special needs would be a challenge, but we were determined to give Josh the best possible life." - Sarah and Jon”
